INNOVATIONS IN GOVERNMENT 2009

FEATURED DIALOGUE:

Performance Management, Reporting Transparency, and the New Administration

Change is here.

It is time to prepare and plan for the future.

For both defense and civilian agencies, this is a time of far-reaching, systemic change. The sluggish world economy is taking its toll, and budgets are beginning to reflect the economic situation at hand. At the same time, you're being asked to provide unprecedented levels of transparency while maintaining a strong operational focus.

During this interactive dialogue, join your peers in a dynamic exchange of best practices and hear from the most respected minds in government as they discuss how to address key concerns regarding defense performance management during this transformational time.

During this roundtable dialogue we will address the following issues:

- Learn how to ensure successful operations via information sharing
- Understand the role performance management can play in mission effectiveness
- Gain insights into the new administration's performance management framework and focus on reporting transparency

This is your chance to share ideas with your colleagues, hear from leading experts, access best practices from your peers and raise key issues about the future of Performance management in government.
